CONCERT I: DECEMBER 10, 2011
"Holiday Magic"

Guest Artist: Jonathan Wright

Jonathan Wright is glad to be back singing with the Thayer Symphony Orchestra. Jonathan is familiar to many in Central MA for his work in the New Players Theatre Guild's cabarets or the Greater Worcester Opera's summer concert series. He had the pleasure of representing both groups at the Hanover Theater's production of "Broadway Our Way". Jonathan has been called "the best singer in Central Massachusetts" for his first place finish in "Idol at the Mount", Mount Wachusett Community College's "Theater at the Mount" singing competition. A resident of Leominster, while not singing Jonathan Works full time at AstraZeneca, where he has been employed for 19 years. Jonathan studied vocal performance at Boston University under Sharon Daniels and serves on the board of NPFG.

CONCERT II: APRIL 14, 2012
"Romance and Passion"

Guest Artist: Alex Beyer

Alex will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto #2. Other music will be Romantic Music of Mantovani Orchestra.

Heralded as a "sensation" with "formidable technique" by the Hartford Courant, Alex Beyer, 17, has acquired an impressive array of prestigious concert appearances around the nation. He has been a finalist in many concerto competitions and has recently performed with the Hartford, New Haven, Milwaukee and Waterbury Symphony Orchestras. His debut with the Greater Bridgeport Symphony Orchestra was hailed as one of the most spectacular debuts ever seen at the Klein Auditorium.

He performs in and organizes many benefit concerts including those for Project Learn, Music for Youth, Mercy Learning Center and Music Haven. He also raises money for the KEYS program, where he volunteers his time working with young music students in the Bridgeport schools. He has been a student of Yoshie Akimoto for the past five years.
